Market overview

Most of Electrolux main markets for appliances continued to show a decline in the second quarter of 2009. The North American market has declined for twelve consecutive quarters. In the second quarter, industry shipments in the US declined by 14%. The European market has been falling for six consecutive quarters, with Eastern Europe showing a continued dramatic downturn in the second quarter, declining by 30%. Demand in Western Europe declined by 9% and the total market in Europe by 14%. The market in Brazil increased in the second quarter due to temporary tax reduction on domestically-produced appliances. Most other markets in Latin America continued to decline.

There are no indications of an immediate improvement in any of the Group's main markets, and, therefore, market demand for appliances around the world is expected to decline further in 2009.

Business areas

Changes in net sales and operating income by business area in comparable currencies are given on page 15.

Core appliances

Industry shipments of appliances in Europe declined by 14% in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period last year. Deliveries in Western Europe declined by 9%. Demand continued to fall in a number of the Group's major markets, including Italy, Great Britain, France, and the Nordic region. Demand in Germany continued to increase somewhat. Deliveries of appliances in Eastern Europe declined by 30%.

The weak market demand and lower sales of products under private label led to lower sales for the Group in comparison with the second quarter of 2008.

Operating income improved in the second quarter. An improved country and product mix, previous price increases and savings related to redundancy of personnel and moving capacity to low-cost countries had a positive impact on operating income. Savings and lower costs for components and raw materials also had a positive impact on income. Lower volumes, unfavorable currency effects and reduced utilization of capacity at the Group's plants had a negative effect on income.

Floor-care products

Market demand for vacuum cleaners in Europe continued to decline in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period in 2008.

Group sales decreased as a result of lower sales volumes but market shares and price levels were stable. Operating income and margin declined as a result of lower volumes.

Major appliances

Industry shipments of core appliances in the US declined by approximately 14% in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the corresponding period last year. This is the twelfth consecutive quarter of decline in shipments.

Group sales of appliances in North America in comparable currencies were lower in the second quarter as a result of continued low sales volumes and the ongoing shift in demand to products with lower prices. The decline in sales was partly offset by previous price increases. Sales in SEK increased due to the strengthening of the US dollar.

Operating income for the second quarter of 2009 improved over the same period in the previous year. Lower sales volumes were offset by lower costs for purchases of raw materials, fixed cost reductions and implemented price increases. Operating income for the second quarter of 2008 was impacted by the launch of Electrolux in the amount of approximately SEK -230m.

The new Electrolux-branded products continued to contribute to an improvement in the product mix.

Floor-care products

Market demand for vacuum cleaners in North America continued to show a decline in the second quarter of 2009 compared to the corresponding period last year.

Sales and operating income decreased as a result of deterioration in product mix.

Industry shipments of appliances in Latin America are estimated to have increased in the second quarter of 2009 compared to the same period in the previous year on the basis of higher industry shipments in Brazil. Industry shipments continued to decline in most of the other Latin American markets.

In Brazil, industry shipments increased significantly on the basis of incentives introduced by the Brazilian government through tax reduction on domestically-produced appliances. Electrolux sales volumes increased in the second quarter over the same period last year and sales increased. The Group gained additional market shares in Brazil. Operating income improved on the basis of higher volumes and a better customer mix.

Australia and New Zealand

In Australia, market demand for appliances in the second quarter was somewhat down compared with the same period last year. Group sales in comparable currencies rose as a result of higher sales volumes and previous prices increases. Electrolux continued to gain market shares. Operating income was in line with the previous year. Negative currency effects of purchases of products priced in US dollars were to a large extent compensated by increased sales and implemented cost reductions.

Southeast Asia and China

Overall market demand in Southeast Asia is estimated to have declined in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period last year. The Group's sales volumes declined but sales increased slightly reflecting price increases and improved product mix. The operations in Southeast Asia continued to show good profitability.

Market statistics for shipments of appliances in China indicate an increase in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period in 2008. Operating income for the operations in China continued to be negatively impacted by costs related to the strategy of focusing on more profitable segments and geographies.

Market demand for food-service equipment is estimated to have declined in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period last year.

In the second quarter, Group sales of food-service equipment declined significantly in comparable currencies as a result of lower sales volumes. Operating income decreased due to lower capacity utilization at production facilities. Personnel cutbacks and lower costs for raw materials had a favorable effect on income.

Demand in the market for laundry equipment is estimated to have declined in the second quarter of 2009 in comparison with the same period in 2008.

Group sales decreased as a result of lower volumes, but market shares were maintained. Operating income declined as a result of lower capacity utilization in production facilities, partly offset by cost savings.

Cash flow

Cash flow from operations and investments in the second quarter was particularly strong and amounted to SEK 3,507m (1,126).

The strong cash flow was generated by income from operations as well as changes in operating assets and liabilities. Extended payment terms for sourced air-conditioners in the US and Latin America had a positive impact on cash flow in the quarter in the total amount of approximately SEK 1,300m (950). The air conditioners will be paid in the third and fourth quarter. Production continued to be adjusted in response to lower demand. The build-up of inventories for the normally stronger second half of the year has been postponed.

Payments related to ongoing restructuring programs and cost-cutting had a negative impact in the amount of approximately SEK -235m in the quarter.

Capital expenditure in the second quarter was lower than in the same period in the previous year and referred mainly to investments in plants for new products and to reinvestments.

Cash flow from investments in the second quarter of 2009 was affected by a divestment of a real estate in the amount of approximately SEK 50m.

New head of Professional Products

Alberto Zanata was appointed new head of Electrolux Professional Products in June 2009. He succeeded Dr. Detlef Münchow, who is leaving the Group. Alberto Zanata is a member of Group Management and reports to the President and CEO Hans Stråberg.

Previously, Zanata has held various management positions within Electrolux operations for professional products.

Asbestos litigation in the US

Litigation and claims related to asbestos are pending against the Group in the US. Almost all of the cases refer to externally supplied components used in industrial products manufactured by discontinued operations prior to the early 1970s. Some of the cases involve multiple plaintiffs who have made identical allegations against many other defendants who are not part of the Electrolux Group.

As of June 30, 2009, the Group had a total of 2,776 (2,288) cases pending, representing approximately 3,120 (approximately 2,870) plaintiffs. During the second quarter 2009, 182 new cases with 182 plaintiffs were filed and 196 pending cases with approximately 380 plaintiffs were resolved. Approximately 80 of the plaintiffs relate to cases pending in the state of Mississippi.

Additional lawsuits may be filed against Electrolux in the future. It is not possible to predict either the number of future claims or the number of plaintiffs that any future claims may represent. In addition, the outcome of asbestos claims is inherently uncertain and always difficult to predict and Electrolux cannot provide any assurances that the resolution of these types of claims will not have a material adverse effect on its business or on results of operations in the future.

Repurchase and transfer of own shares

For several years, Electrolux has on the basis of authorizations by the AGM acquired and transferred own shares. The purpose of the share-repurchase programs has been to enable adapting the capital structure of the Group and thereby to contribute to increased shareholder value, or to use the repurchased shares in conjunction with the financing of potential acquisitions and the Group's share-related incentive programs.

In accordance with the proposal by the Board of Directors, the AGM decided to authorize the Board to transfer own shares on the account of company acquisitions during the period up until the AGM in 2010. The Board of Directors did not request any mandate from the AGM to repurchase additional shares in the company.

The AGM also authorized transfers of up to 3,000,000 repurchased B-shares to cover costs that may arise as a result of the previous employee stock-option programs for 2002-2003 and the Electrolux Performance Share Program 2007.

As of June 30, 2009, Electrolux held 24,805,519 B-shares, corresponding to 8.0% of the total number of outstanding shares, see table on page 12.

Risks and uncertainty factors

Risks in connection with the Group's operations can, in general, be divided into operational risks related to business operations and those related to financial operations. Operational risks are normally managed by the operative units within the Group, and financial risks by the Group's treasury department.

Risks and uncertainty factors

Electrolux operates in competitive markets, most of which are relatively mature. Demand for appliances varies with general business conditions, and price competition is strong in a number of product categories. Electrolux ability to increase profitability and shareholder value is largely dependent on its success in developing innovative products and maintaining cost-efficient production. Major factors for maintaining and increasing competitiveness include managing fluctuations in prices for raw materials and components as well as implementing restructuring. In addition to these operative risks, the Group is exposed to risks related to financial operations, e.g., inte-

In 2004, Electrolux initiated a restructuring program to make the Group's production competitive in the long term. When it is fully implemented in 2010, more than half of production of appliances will be located in low-cost countries and savings will amount to approximately SEK 3 billion annually. Restructuring provisions and write-downs are reported as items affecting comparability within operating income. For information on provisions in the first half of 2009, see table on page 11.

rest risks, financing risks, currency risks and credit risks. The Group's development is strongly affected by external factors, of which the most important in terms of managing risks currently include:

Variations in demand

Demand for appliances is affected by the general business cycle. A deterioration in these conditions may lead to lower sales volumes as well as a shift of demand to low-price products, which generally have lower margins. Utilization of production capacity may also decline in the short term. The global economic trend is an uncertainty factor in terms of the development of earnings in 2009.

Price competition

A number of the markets in which Electrolux operates features strong price competition. The Group's strategy is based on innovative products and brand-building, and is aimed, among other things, at minimizing and offsetting price competition for its products. A continued downturn in market conditions involves a risk of increasing price competition.

Changes in prices for raw materials and components

The raw materials to which the Group is mainly exposed comprise steel, plastics, copper and aluminum. Bilateral agreements are used to manage price risks. To some extent, raw materials are purchased at spot prices. There is considerable uncertainty regarding trends for the prices of raw materials.

Access to financing

In 2008, the Group improved its loan-maturity profile and thus substantially reduced dependence on short-term borrowings. Electrolux has an unused revolving credit facility for long- or short-term back-up.

Risks, risk management and risk exposure are described in more detail in the Annual report 2008, www.electrolux.com/annualreport2008.

New accounting standards

IAS 1 Presentation of Financial Statements (Revised)

The Group has implemented the revised IAS 1, which is effective as of January 1, 2009. As a consequence, the Group's consolidated income statement includes items of other comprehensive income. These items were previously reported within consolidated equity. Consequently, the consolidated equity statement is reported excluding these items. The change does not imply any new information or changes in key ratios.

IFRS 8 Operating Segments

This new standard replaces IAS 14, Segment Reporting, and prescribes the measurement and presentation of segments. Electrolux will report the same segments as previously. The impact of the new standard will be disclosed according to the standard, e.g., sales per country in the Annual Report.

The standard is effective for annual periods beginning on/or after January 1, 2009. The Group has applied the additional disclosure requirements in IAS 34, Interim Financial Reporting, in accordance with the new standard. As a consequence, assets and liabilities per segment are presented in the interim reports as from the first quarter of 2009.
