Electrolux Grand Cuisine Molteni

Product Factsheet

Molteni:	The ultimate bespoke range cooker: built to order and the choice of the world's most demanding chefs, and to perfectly complement components of the Electrolux Grand Cuisine cooking system.
Overview:	Each Molteni is made to suit its chef. According to your preference you can choose a gas solid top, fryer, grill, sear hob, hot surface, induction, gas burner and gas or electric convection oven. If you like to work with a French Top, your Molteni will feature a thick cast-iron plate that graduates in temperature from cool to hot across its span. This is a cooker built on a grand scale (the oven door alone weighs 40 kilograms) yet everything works in harmony with Electrolux Grand Cuisine components such as the Precision Vacuum Sealer and Blast Chiller. Only about 150 stoves are made each year, and each one is created to an individual commission. Molteni's Classic range, which looks much as it did 80 years ago, makes up the majority of these orders, although the innovative Podium island design is fast gaining admirers. But each is custom-made, whether for the Electrolux Professional division or as part of a private home's Electrolux Grand Cuisine cooking system.
Features:	A Molteni will work nonstop at the most demanding levels of performance for years and years. Massive 40kg doors are built that way for a reason: in the heat of a restaurant kitchen, with dozens of covers to serve during an evening, the chefs don't always treat their equipment gently. A Molteni can take some punishment and come back for more. The thick, high-gloss enamel coating shrugs off bumps and scratches and the massive steel top can handle any number of heavy pots being moved around.

Specifics:	Molteni is made to measure – no two are exactly alike. Their size, features and finishes are created to bespoke commissions.
Price & Availability	Custom made, price will be quoted to specification
